CEVA Logistics wins Airbus production supply contract in Hamburg, Germany

- CEVA Logistics will be responsible for production supply for the A320 family structural assembly and the equipping of fuselage sections as well as the manufacturing and equipping of the A330 and A350 sections in Hamburg and operate more than 50,000 sq m warehouse.
- CEVA is already managing spare parts and components in Hamburg
- With this major program, CEVA further cements its position as a global leader in aerospace logistics

Marseille, France February 23, 2021 – In a major expansion of its international aerospace business, CEVA Logistics has been awarded a contract to manage production supply for Airbus at the aircraft manufacturer's assembly site in Hamburg, Germany.

CEVA will operate the production supply logistics on behalf of Airbus at multiple locations with a total area of 58,631 m². Among the services that will be provided are inbound, put away/storage, pick and prepare, marketplace, internal transport, delivery to point of use, returns, empties handling and external dispatch.

Logistics improvements using LEAN principles

Within the scope of the new contract, CEVA will initiate and implement logistics improvements and projects, using LEAN principles to further increase efficiency within the facilities.

CEVA's successful management of a spare parts and components contract for Airbus awarded in 2020 was key to the awarding of this new contract.

Says CEVA CEO, Mathieu Friedberg: "CEVA's capabilities and commitment in aerospace logistics have once again been recognized by Airbus with the awarding of this new contract. Our two companies have successfully worked together previously on other projects, most recently in Hamburg on the spare parts and components contract. The depth of CEVA's specialist knowledge in this industry, combined with its innovative operational and delivery solutions, have been key to securing this new business."

CEVA will take on existing staff at the Hamburg sites under Transfer of Undertakings Protection of Employment (TUPE) regulations.
